whenever you need it.

Die Notfallmamas

We are dedicated to helping people balance work and family life. That's why we offer child-care support.

No time? No grandparents? No problem!

Sometimes you get days where nothing goes to plan: your child gets sick and can't go to the daycare centre; grandma lives too far away; the babysitter is on holiday or sick.

And you have an important appointment at the office. Now what? First, take a deep breath. Then smile. Because these situations are precisely why we're here.

Just drop us a line. And a Notfallmama will make her way over to you.

All our Notfallmamas are childcare professionals and adept at dealing with children. Some are qualified paediatric nurses, others kindergarten teachers or nannies, others still social pedagogy graduates. Moreover, most of them are mums and have themselves, at some point or other, encountered situations in which they have struggled to find childcare options. They know well how important it is to find kind, reliable, trustworthy childcare providers. We look after your little darlings in your home, doing everything just as you would do it. And you? You can rest assured that everything will be just fine.

“Can I let someone I don't know look after my child?”

Absolutely. Your child may indeed be shy at first, which is a very natural reaction. But we can assure you that he or she will adjust quickly. After all – and this is very important – your child is in their home environment.

What's more, our Notfallmamas („emergency mothers“) know just how to make little ones smile.

“What else do I need to know?”

The Notfallmamas need 2-3 hours' notice. You can book us by telephone, email or via our website. The formalities are regulated in a childcare contract, which will also include the pertinent telephone numbers and any important information about the child, including information on any allergies or medication.

In most cases, a 15-20 minute transition phase (in which the parent(s) and childcare provider are present) will suffice.

All children and Notfallmamas are insured through a business liability insurance policy.

The Notfallmamas work together with the family services unit, supplementing their consulting and agency services by providing emergency childcare in the home.
